

Stalingrad, Cover-Up

German War Correspondents Skew Facts

Heinz Schröter, War Correspondents' Staff, Sixth Army

Copyright © 2010, Breaker McCoy, Editor

This book is copyright protected and may not be reproduced in part or whole without the express written consent from the author of this book. All Rights Reserved.

www.quikmaneuvers.com

Table of Contents: 31 Chapters

Preface

Introduction

Chapters

1. Forty-Eight Hours to Go

2. Operation Blue
3. 6th Army Stalingrad Attack Order
4. In the Battle's Crucible
5. The Soviet Bridgeheads
6. Anxiety in Stalingrad
7. The Storm Gathers
8. The 19th of November
9. The Stalingrad Scapegoat
10. The Whole Front Ablaze
11. The Fateful Hours
12. Russian Coup de Main Captures Kalatch Bridge
13. Destiny Pursued its Course
14. The Armored Pincers Close
15. Sixth Army Prepared to Break Out
16. The 24th of November
17. Alternative Measures
18. Operation 'Winter Gale'
19. The End of a Great Hope
20. The Condemned Sixth Army
21. Military Incompetence & Inefficiencies
22. The Operations of Army Groups A, Don and B in January 1943
23. Air Lift Problems
24. Three Envoys from the Fortress

25. Russian Ultimatum to the Sixth Army
 26. Russian Attack Begins
 27. Operations 'Sunflower' and 'Lion'
 28. The Terrible Days of Withdrawal & Defeat
 29. Weighed in the Balance and Found Wanting
 30. The 'Spy' from Army High Command
 31. Fortress Cut in Half
- Bibliography