

Thunder from the East

Soviet Horse Cavalry on the Eastern Front: WWII

Copyright © 2006, Breaker McCoy

This book is copyright protected and may not be reproduced in part or whole, or sold, without the express written consent from the author of this book. All Rights Reserved.

www.quikmaneuvers.com

Table Of Contents: 26 Chapters, 10 Appendices

Chapters

1. Soviet Cavalry Blitzkrieg on the Eastern Front
2. Red Army Operational Mobile Groups:
The Eastern Front
3. Historical Origins of Modern Soviet Cavalry Doctrine
4. Russian Cavalry in World War I
5. Soviet Cavalry in the Civil War
6. Soviet Cavalry Suppresses Chinese Revolt
7. Cossack Cavalry Divisions

Organization

8. Soviet Tactical Level Cavalry Formations

9. Soviet Operational Level Cavalry Formations
10. Combat Evaluation of Soviet Cavalry Units
Operations
11. Soviet Strategic/Operational Cavalry
12. Soviet Strategic/Operational Cavalry Operations
13. Red Army Moscow Counteroffensive Preparations
14. Red Army Moscow Counteroffensive
15. Soviet Strategic/Operational Cavalry Offensives
16. Dead Schwehrpunkt: Soviet Southern Front Offensives
17. Red Cavalry in 2nd Battle of Kharkov
18. Operation Mars
19. Soviet Cavalry at Stalingrad
20. Soviet Stalingrad Cavalry Mismanagement
21. Soviet Cavalry Corps in 1943
22. Soviet Cavalry Raids
23. The Year of the Cavalry-Mechanized Group
24. Soviet Cavalry-Mechanized Groups
25. Soviet Cavalry Corps Operations
26. General Pliyev's Cavalry-Mechanized Group
vs. the Japs

Appendices

- 1: Major Soviet Defeats of the German Army, WW2
- 2: Mobility Tiers
- 3: Organization of WWII Cavalry/Infantry Divisions
- 4: Soviet Destruction of Axis Cavalry Divisions
- 5: Soviet Buildup in Front of Moscow, 12/1941
- 6: Cossacks after World War II
- 7: Some of the German Divisions Destroyed at Moscow
- 8: German 6th Army at Stalingrad

9: Red Army Losses, Defensive Operations

10: Selected Soviet Cavalry Divisions: Locations/Dates

Bibliography

